

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

INTRODUCTION.

The Chute family in America is not a record of one who "came over in the Mayflower and fought in the battle of Bunker Hill," nor the account of three brothers" that came over, but rather the history and genealogy of a humble school master, who came over early to Massachusetts, whose descendants emigrated to Maine and Nova Scotia, and latterly to the South and to the far West.

As every author assumes his book needed, the author of this book assumes; first, that it is needed to show the origin of the family name; second, to show the lines and lineages; third, to show where the different families branch off; fourth, to show the different generations and degrees of relationship; fifth to settle disputes that arise concerning relationships; and sixth, to preserve the records from the "tooth of Time and rasure of oblivion."

The name Chute is of Norman French origin, and means a descent, as down a slope, a sluice, or down from an elevation as by a parachute. By some the name is said to be derived from the name "Jutes."

One author says that Baron Edouard LeChute commanded a company of regiment of French troops in the battle of Hastings, Oct. 14, 1066, which victory put William the Conqueror on the throne of England, from whom, tradition says, the whole family, bearing the name, have descended. The name is among the first surnames used in England.

But our authentic history commences with Alexander Chute, lord of the manor of Taunton, Somersetshire, England, who died in 1268.

HIS COAT OF ARMS was: Gu. three swords, barwise,* points to theexter, ar. pommels and hilts or, within an orle of mullets of the third; on a canton, per fesse, ar. and vert, a lion of England.

CREST: A gauntlet ppr. holding a broken sword ar. pommel and hilt or.

MOTTO: Fortune de Guerre. (Fortune of War.)

Philip Chute, of Appledore, standard bearer to Henry VIII, obtained recompense for his gallant services at the seige of Bologne, in 1544, an augmentation to his armorial bearings, gu. semé of mullets or three swords

*The middle sword should encounter the other two, by being turned contrawise.

barwise ppr. the middlemost encountering the other two ; a canton per fesse ar. and vert, thereon a lion of England : Crest same as Chute of Somerset.

In 1827 another addition was made for Wiggett-Chute : Arms ; quarterly, 1st and 4th CHUTE, gu. three swords barwise, the points toward the dexter, ppr pommels and hilts or ; 2d and 3d WIGGETT, ermine, three mullets, two and one, az. pierced gu. on a chief, waring, sa. a dove, regardant ppr.

CREST OF CHUTE : A dexter cubit arm, in armor, the hand in a gauntlet, grasping a broken sword in hand, sinister, ppr. pommel and hilt or.

CREST OF WIGGETT : A griphon's head, couped, sa. holding in the beak an ear of wheat, ppr. between two wings ar. each charged with a mullet gu.

He was appointed to conduct one of the earliest of those experiments for the registrations of titles and sales of land, which have never ceased to exercise the ingenuity of law reformers down to the present time. Challoner Chute purchased The Vine—a celebrated country-seat in

In 1742, Walpole was introduced to John's other brother, Anthony, and expressed satisfaction at having seen and got acquainted with the three. He described John's temperance habits Aug. 20, 1743, as commendable and better than his Norfolk neighbors, Gray admired John the most of anybody, and held correspondence with him for more than twenty years. In 1762 Gray wrote to Chute about taking the professorship of Modern History at Cambridge, but Gray got it himself in 1768, and Chute Chute speaks of shedding skin after the gout, and lively as an eel a week after. It is necessary here to explain that Lionel Chute, the first to America, brought over with him a parchment roll, containing the Chute lineage and pedigree from Alexander¹ to about 1700, which was deciphered by Dean Dudley and John W. Deane, and published in the Gen. Reg. of 1859; but by age and dampness (being in Lionel's chest, see his will), much of it was very imperfect, so we have followed more closely Wm. Berry's Berkskire and Hampshire Pedigrees. This same roll was copied by Amelia (Parish) Perkins, page 23, and so two or three persons in the family have copies of it.

The first instance of the spelling Chewte we find in Challoner W. Chute's History of the Vyne, 1888, when Challoner Chute was admitted student of the Middle Temple, in 1613, as Caroli Chewte. But like many other names in America, it has several spellings.

The original Chute Arms have been augmented or empaled with the names of Britton, Sturton, Chichester, Barkley, Lucas, Culpepper, and Baker. The following items are taken from various books published in London.

Sir Wm. Hicks,⁸ 7th Bart, b. 1754, (Sir Howe,⁷ Howe,⁶ Sir Michael,⁵ Sir Wm.,⁴ Sir Michael,³ Robert,² John,¹ of 1557), m. Ann Rachel, da. of Thomas L. Chute, 1793, and had Ann Rachel, m. Sir Lambert Cromie, Bart, living in 1831.

Gules, three swords Barways, the middle with its point to the Dexter, the other to the Sinister Argent, Hilts and Pomels Or, within an orle of Mullets of the Third, on a Canton per Fess Argent and Vert a Lyon of England, is the coat of Sir George

OF CHUTES IN AMERICA, NOT OF THE MAIN FAMILY.

Noah Chute is reported of in New Jersey about 1660-70.

Another family is in Athens Co., Ohio. Andrew J. Chute was in the 31st O. V. I., in Sherman's army.

Another family is in Cumberland Co., Me. We well remember two brothers, Freedom and James, in Casco, south of Naples, in 1857. They were two respectable farmers, out of a family of thirteen children of Moses and Ruth (Mosher) Chute; Moses was the son of George and Olive (Brown) Chute; and George was a son of Wm. Shute who m. Hannah Carter in Scarboro 1751. It appears that about the time of the American war, they changed the name from Shute to Chute.

In the Salem Register of October 1806, is recorded the marriage of Jeremiah M. Chute to Betsy Gavet, farther than this we know nothing.

Besides these are some Chutes from Ireland. James Henry is one in South Boston. John J., is one in Neponset, south of Boston. Saw one in New York city in 1880. Another in Chicago in 1870. John Chute was in Rochester, Minn., time of the late war.

Robert and Elizabeth (Higgins) Chute, live in Cleveland, O. They came over from Ireland to Canada in 1862, lived in Strathroy, Middlesex Co., two years, thence to Pennsylvania, and then to Cleveland, Ohio. He was the son of Isaac and Margaret (Manny) Chute, of Cork, who was the son of Thomas Chute of Tralee, 1770.

Mr. James Chute lives in Utica, N. Y., son of Harry and Nellie (Murphy) Chute, of Grange, Meade Co., Ireland. Harry's children were James, Mary, Bridget, Katharine and Michael. Harry's parents were Patrick Chute and Katie Monohan, and they had Thomas, John, Patrick, Harry and Mary.

Among the British soldiers in America, in the days of George II, was Lieut. Eusebius Chute of the 9th regiment, commission dated July 14, 1759.

Peter Chute, injured by a disaster on the cars of the N. Y. & N. E. R. R., the first of September 1893, died at Hartford, Ct., worth $100,-

000. He left $12,000 to a Mrs. Boyce at Burnley, Lancashire, England; and the balance to a sister, Mrs. Frank Duffey, in Mass., and a brother in New South Wales.

In seeking the information for making up the volume a few have treated the work with contempt, thus proving that

“Where ignorance is bliss 'tis folly to be wise.”

— Thomas Gray, 1716-1771.

Another class were afraid of investigation lest they might find some of low repute, illustrating the sentiment

“Be ignorance thy choice where knowledge leads to woe.”

— James Beattie, 1735-1803.

A third class puffed up with egotism and arrogance have proved that

“By ignorance is pride increased

Those most assume who know the least.”

— John Gay, 1688-1732.

But while these three classes together make a very small minority, we are proud to say that the masses in general are interested in learning and knowing their origins and history; and we venture the statement that in 1850 not more than 100 volumes of genealogy were published while now there are 2000. And while we express thanks to many for their assistance and patronage, we will say right here that any persons, whose families we have sketched, may use these sketches as foundations to build upon, should they conclude to write up their full family histories.

CONCERNING THE ARRANGEMENT OF THE GENEALOGY.

The Roman numerals tell the number in the generation, and the figures right after tell the number of families thus far traced. See page 27. VI, 10, means the sixth generation, and the tenth family thus far disposed of. The numbers on the left-hand margin are taken up and attended to in their order farther on; so you find 10 on page 20 attended to on page 27. Where a daughter married one of the same name, and had a family, a reference is made to the husband's number, as in two instances on page 32. The same references are in the allied families, and generally are to be found in the "Chute" part of the book.

When surnames are referred to, they speak for themselves.

The following abbreviations have been used : —

a. for aged.

ab. for about.

b. for born.

da. for daughter.

d. for died.

d. y. for died young.

d. s. p. for died without issue.

D. C. for Dartmouth College.

m. for married.

H. C. or H. U., Harvard College, Harvard University.

w. for wife or widow.

In the state or province where the parents lived or settled the children are supposed to have settled also, unless otherwise stated.

WM. E. CHUTE. MRS. SARAH ANN HARRIS. MRS. SUSANNA WEBB.

SIXTH GENERATION.

¶I. 10 Samuel Chute⁶ (John,⁵ Lionel,⁴ James,³ James,² Lionel¹), born in Hampstead, N. H., Feb. 16, 1746–7, taken to Granville, Annapolis Co., N. S., with his parents, 1759 ; married Sarah, daughter of Nathaniel Barnes, July 11, 1768, and lived in Granville. He was a farmer, a blacksmith and a good pious man of the Baptist church. In crossing Annapolis River below Bridgetown, to hear Rev. Thomas Handley Chipman preach, he was drowned Nov. 12, 1786.

1. Mysterious are the ways of God,
 And past our comprehension,
 Too much we live on unconcerned
 Without an apprehension.
When suddenly a scene appears
 Upon the stage of action
That startles all our grief and fears
 And causes great distraction.

2. A christian man was Samuel Chute
 And going o'er the river
The boat upset and he was drowned
 None coming to deliver.
His aim to hear the gospel sound
 From 'Thomas Handley Chipman,
But oh ! alas ! he was not spared
 To hear the Heavenly Footman.

3. His wife and children did lament
 The loss of a dear father,
But he had passed the bounds of time
 Into the great hereafter :
His children all did follow him,
 So far as is recorded,
In paths of virtue, truth and grace
 And so will be rewarded.

ON THE DEATH OF NELSON CHUTE.

1.

There was a man of good repute
Known far and wide as Nelson Chute;
His home was in Bear River town,
A place quite famous for renown.
For labor, honor, justice, truth,
He ever was a noted youth;
And as a merchant he did gain
Some wealth by trading on the main.

2.

So, on the Bay of Fundy, he
Had started for St. John, N. B.
On board the Robert laden grand
And James T. Hinxman in command.
When near St. John a strong breeze blew
That called up all the vessel's crew;
When by the gybing of main boom,
Poor Nelson found a watery tomb.

3.

His wife for him did sad lament,
Because her heart was sorely rent,
But he had gone to his reward
T'appear before his blessed Lord;
And there, where all things are arranged
(For God's decrees cannot be changed),
We hope to see him in that land
With all the blest at God's right hand.

VIII. 106 William Edward,⁸ (*Andrew,*⁷ *Thomas,*⁶ *John,*⁵ *Lionel*⁴ *James,*³ *James,*² *Lionel*¹), born April 24, 1832; married by Rev. Alfred Chute, at his house in Adelaide, Ont., Mary Ann, daughter of Walter and Phebe (Brown) Hill (Charles, John), from Bucks Co., Pa., to Canada, April 24, 1861; drove a covered wagon (prairie schooner), across Wisconsin to Minnesota, July 1862, time of the great outbreak of the Sioux Indians, under Little Crow, their chief: bought out a prairie claim, built a hewed log house, and there settled, two miles west of Blue Earth City, Jo Davies, Faribault Co. In Dec., 1863, the call was so urgent for soldiers in the army, to put down the rebellion, he volunteered at Blue Earth City, Jan. 5, 1864, went to Fort Snelling and St. Paul; mustered into the United States service Feb. 24, into Co. H, 2nd Minn. V. I., (most of the regiment being home on Furlough), as a veteran recruit, and went South in March, on sleighs down the Mississippi river, to La Crosse, Wis., then by cars to Chicago, Louisville, Ky., and Nashville, Tenn., then marched (March 23), via. Murfreesboro, Shelbyville, and Tallahoma to Stevenson, Ala., and thence to Chattanooga by rail.

After two days there they marched across the country eighteen miles (camped one night near the Chickamauga battle-ground), to Ringgold, North Georgia, the middle of April. There they rested, drilled and recruited three weeks, and started out on the great campaign under Generals Sherman, Thomas, McPherson, Howard, Palmer, Logan, Dodge, Blair, Slocumb, and others, May 7, about 100,000 strong, and was with the army in their marches, countermarches and bivouacks, to the taking of Marietta, Atlanta, Savannah, etc. He was in the 2nd Brig., 3d Div., 14th army corps. After three weeks in and near Savannah, they marched up the Savannah river twenty-five or thirty miles, crossed over in Jan. 1865, on pontoon bridges into South Carolina, and went through some cold, wet and muddy tramps, crossing the Saluda, Wateree, Great Pedee, Cape Fear and other rivers on pontoon bridges, and arrived at Goldsboro, N. C., the last of March. Being in the left wing of Sherman's army they encountered the rebel, Gen. Wheeler's, cavalry several times. While at Goldsboro the joyful news came of the surrender of Gen. Lee to Gen. Grant; and the dreadful news of the death of President Lincoln! About the twentieth of April, they marched northward through Raleigh, N. C., (when Johnston surrendered to Sherman), and went into camp, south side of James river, near Richmond, Va., May 7, exactly a year from breaking camp in Ringgold, Ga., the year before, and in counting up it was found that they had marched exactly two thousand miles.

They crossed James river on pontoons and marched through Richmond by Libby prison and Castle Thunder, and on to Washington, wading across half a dozen mountain streams and went into camp back of Arlington Heights May 18; then were in the grand review in Washington, May 24 (Gen. Grant's army of the Potomac reviewed the day before), and the last of the month they crossed over the Potomac river and went into camp at Fort Bunker Hill, just back of Washington, in Maryland.

On June 14 they left, and went via. the Baltimore and Ohio railroad across to Parkersburg, West Virginia, thence by steamboat down the Ohio river, calling at Cincinnati, to Louisville, Ky., and there about three miles out went into camp till July 11; then by railroad to Chicago, Ill., and LaCrosse, Wis., and steamboat to St. Paul; they were returned home, and mustered out at Fort Snelling the twenty-first. Then Mr. Chute returned to his home near Blue Earth City, and there "reconstructed" somewhat, but the severe winters rather "scared him out," so he sold out in 1869, and in 1870 drove a team and moved across Iowa to Maysville, De Kalb Co., Mo., and next year to Island City, Gentry Co., then to Albany, the county seat. In 1872 moved to Guilford, Nodaway Co., and that summer drove across the Missouri river into Kansas; went far as Topeka, and returned again into Missouri, bought a lot, built and settled in Bolckow, Andrew Co. During his sojourn there of five winters he taught about thirty singing classes in five counties, DeKalb, Gentry, Nodaway, Andrew and Clinton. But the grasshoppers came over so thick from Kansas in 1874, threatening a famine, that he sold out there in the spring of 1875, and returned to St. Thomas, Ont., and there for four winters taught singing in Elgin, Middlesex and Lambton counties.

In the fall of 1879 he crossed the St. Clair river into Michigan and there farmed it summers and taught singing ten winters. Mr. Chute received only a common school education, but commenced teaching in 1855, and taught four common schools and nearly two hundred singing schools or classes in thirty different books, in Nova Scotia, Maine, New York, Ontario, Michigan, Minnesota and Missouri. Besides learning to read music and singing in the old-fashioned singing schools, Mr. Chute attended three musical institutes, first at North Reading, Mass., summer of 1857, under Dr. Lowell Mason and George F. Root, using the Hallehujah and Sabbath Bell, and for concert exercises the Haymakers and the Messiah, (and in the fall he went to Portland, Naples and Otisfield, Me., and learned the foundation of the Chutes in America); second at Winona, Minn., Aug., 1868, under George F. Root, P. P. Bliss, T. M. Towne and O. D. Adams in the Triumph, and for concerts Mendelsohn's St. Paul; third at South Bend, Ind., summer of 1870, under G. F. Root, C. M. Wyman, P. P. Bliss, T. M.

Towne and William Mason, using the Palm, and for concerts Haydn's Creation. In all of these he studied harmony and composition, and from time to time has gathered a library of six hundred music and four hundred hymn books.

While on a visit to Nova Scotia in 1855, he commenced teaching singing in the good old American Vocalist, and there commenced gathering the records of the family connections, which are the basis of this volume. In 1885, he steamboated on the lakes all summer and in the fall went down the Erie Canal to New York, thence to Boston, thence to Portland, Me., and forty miles north of there in Otisfield, in Cumberland Co., taught a singing class that winter. In April 1886, he traveled forty miles east across the country to Augusta, visiting friends and relations; then via Waterville and Bangor, took cars to Woodstock, N. B., visiting and gathering records. Then after visiting friends at Eel river, he went down the St. John river on a raft to near Frederickton, and went up the Keswick river to the north, above Zealand Station and visited friends in York Co., then came down to Fredericton, and took a steamer to St. John, where he stopped four nights making calls and seeking out friends and relations. On May 12, he crossed the Bay of Fundy, on the steamer "Secret," to Digby, N. S., and in that province for nearly four months he traveled in four counties, from Weymouth, Digby Co., through Annapolis Co., to Kentville, Kings Co., and over to Caledonia, Queens Co., hunting the "lost tribes" of the family connection. He started at Bear River Sept. 7, on the schooner "Florence Christine." Capt. Norman W. Chute, wood and timber laden, and sailed to Boston; took steamer thence to Portland, Me., and traveled fifty miles north to Snow's Fall's, Oxford Co., calling and hunting family connections. At Portland took cars to Newburyport, Mass., thence across the country to Salem, Lynn and Boston, still searching records and gathering items and statistics.

After spending all of October, chiefly in Massachusetts, he left Boston and went to Taunton November sixth; to Providence, R. As he was appointed one of the executors of his father's will, in order to get funds to pay off legacies, he went to British Columbia, spring of 1862, and did well; but in coming home in the fall he was induced to stop in California and try his hand at gold mining, and somehow in Esmeralda, Mono Co., he contracted some distemper and started for Stockton to a water cure, and was found dead in bed Aug., 1863. His widow married 2nd, James, son of Michael Timmons (b. 1830), July 4, 1866, and live on the same old farm.

DEATH OF AARON CHUTE.

Our father in sixty-two passed away
And left the farm to two of his sons,
Freeman and Aaron, who were to pay
The portion due to the other ones;

DEACON JOHN M. CHUTE, AND WIFE LUCY CHUTE.

Thinking more quickly to raise his share,
Than on the farm, he went off West
To the land of gold, and while out there
He worked in mines and did his best.

2.

But overworked his health gave way,
Doctors prescribed a change of place
And rest, but our informants say
He delayed too long, his careworn face
He turned at last to a milder clime,
And on the way, was found one morn
In death's embrace. O! brother mine!
To think you died so all forlorn!

3.

'Tis sad to part with those we love,
And know they'll no more greet us here,
But if with Christ they reign above,
We feel our loss much less severe.
Dear brother Aaron is now at rest,
His toils on earth are fully done,
In heaven rejoicing with the blest,
He'll wear the crown that here he won.

ON THE LOSS OF DEACON H. H. CHUTE'S THREE VESSELS.

From the Isle of Cape Breton, the port of Cow Bay,
A schooner, the "Vivid," had started one day
Coal laden for Halifax, sails were all set,
But failed on the ocean by storms that they met.

2.

Daniel Johnson, the captain, and crew of good men,
A minister and wife and six children, all then
With good cheer and prospects upon the great main,
But alas ! they went down, their hopes were in vain.

3.

And then "Lizzie Chute," was another by name,
From West Indies coming with Captain John Graham,
She struck on the rocks on January ten,
And met a sad fate in all seven men.

A young man among them, Charles Herbert, the one,
Only son of the owner, who now felt undone,

* Deacon Chute lost two other vessels, one the "Vivid," Capt. Daniel Johnson, coal laden, Dec. 1867, from Cape Breton to Halifax, with six men, a minister, wife and six children ; and another the "Heiress," lumber laden, burned at the mouth of Bear River.

But they went, with the mate, David Pyne and George Vroom,
And a colored cook too, a very sad doom.

b.

Another, the "Heiress," at Bear River's mouth,
Was well lumber laden and off for the South;
But alas! she was doomed and by fire consumed,
And so the trip ended as may be presumed.

DEATH OF JOHN B. GOUGH (1817-1886.)

1.

Our ranks again are broken, a warrior has fled,
From all his earthly troubles, he's numbered with the dead;
But when his sleep is ended, and he's ransomed from the grave,
He then shall meet the army, he tried on earth to save.

2.

I know you all would like it, to know what was his name,
'Tis John B. Gough the warrior, for you have heard the same;
When but a boy in sorrow, he struggled hard for life,
And then got married early and took a loving wife.

3.

But when the ruby cup passed, he couldn't well refrain,
His wife tried to prevent him, but found 'twas all in vain;
But when death came and took her, who was to him so dear,
Then he began to realize, his fearful, wild career.

He signed the temperance pledge then, and there began to preach,
And warn poor drunkards soundly, their doom to them did teach;
And when the church was crowded, he would a story tell,
How he escaped the monster which always pleased them well.

5.

But his career is ended, he lies beneath the sod,
And freed from all earth's trials, his soul is with his God;
But when the last, loud trumpet, shall bid the sleeper rise,
We then shall see the warrior, with unbecclouded eyes.

SONG, WRITTEN BY SAMUEL LOTEN WESTON, M.D. OF BOLSTER'S MILLS AND SUNG AT THE SILVER WEDDING.

"Of all the faith that wins the highest grace,
Whose indication is a cheerful face,
Of all the works that is the best by half,
That sometimes blossoms in a hearty laugh."

JAMES B. WIGGIN.

1.

Just five and twenty years to-day
Since Windsor to Lucett did say,
"I'll take you for my wedded wife."
Says she "All right, I'm yours for life."

CHORUS.

Then clear the deck, rant, tear and canter,
Clear the deck, rant, tear and canter,
Clear the deck, shake out the bedding,
For we're all here at the Silver Wedding.

2.

At first they lived in humble style
And fortune seemed to frown awhile,
But they laid up some dimes and quarters,
Made pants, raised hens and two fine daughters.

Then clear the deck, etc.

3.

They bought a farm and built a house,
They kept no cat that caught no mouse,
And what did much to increase their means,
They raised sweet corn and lima beans.

Then clear the deck, etc.

4.

Now all things lovely went apace,
The daughters grew in gifts and grace,
But when it seemed that they should marry,
They made a most perplexing tarry.

Then clear the deck, etc.

5.

The parents, since no wedding came
To crown the altar with its flame,
Said "wedded life has had some clover,
We think we'd better marry over."

Then clear the deck, etc.

6.

So cards and invitations flew,
And brought together a Chutey crew,
Of long Chutes, short Chutes, stout and lean,
A hundred, more or less, I ween.

Then clear the deck, etc.

7.

Here's Rose, and Belle, and Liz, and Ella,
O what a chance for some good "fella,"
And lots of other charming women
With hideous bangs, fine lace and trimming.

Then clear the deck, etc.

8.

Here's Albert, 'Siah, Bill and Frank,
And John with many a funny prank,
Can't name them all — we have no quakers,
Excepting uncle Mahlon Akers.

Then clear the deck, etc.

9.

And how the Chutes with Chutes have chatted,
 How some on oyster soup have fattened,
 I will refer — I'm such a noodle,
 To that old Nincompoop — Dr. Coodle.*
 Then clear the deck, etc.

10.

Kind friends I'm done, my muse is "bust,"
 My throat is dry and close I must,
 Obligated, lest you some tears be shedding,
 To keep the rest for the "Golden Wedding."

CHORUS.

Then clear the deck, etc.,
 Clear the deck, rant, tear and canter,
 Clear the deck, shake out the bedding,
 We'll try and be at the "Golden Wedding."

CLOSING CHAPTERS ON THE CHUTE FAMILY.

I. ON THE ORIGINAL FIRST FAMILY TERMINATING IN THE SECOND OR MIDDLE BRANCH.

Ipswich, Mass., was first settled by English emigrants in 1633. But a tradition seems to say that the Mayflower intended to settle there, but went on to Plymouth, here is the first verse of a poem of six verses by James Appleton Morgan.

I love to think of old Ipswich town,
Old Ipswich town in the East countree;
Whence on the tide you can float down
Thro' long salt grass to the wailing sea.
Where the Mayflower drifted off the bar,
Sea-worn and weary long years ago,
And dared not enter, but sailed away
Till she landed her boats in Plymouth Bay.

Abram Hammatt Esq., (1780–1856), of Ipswich, in his “Hammatt papers,” says: It appears from our records “that there was a grammar school set up in Ipswich in ye year 1636,” three years after John Winthrop, the younger with his twelve companions commenced a settlement in this place. It was kept by Lionel Chute, who died in 1645.

But the Chute family all seem to have left Ipswich before 1700, and settled in Rowley and Newbury. In the burying yard by the Byfield meeting-house, used to stand a dark stone with the following inscriptions upon it:

Sacred to the memory of Capt. Daniel Chute who died Jan. 6, 1805, in the 83d year of his age, having been a respectable member of the church of Christ sixty-three years.

Mrs. Hannah Chute, relict of Capt. Daniel Chute, died April 28, 1812, in the 90th year of her age. She was distinguished for sound judgement, active, benevolent and sincere piety.

Sacred also to the memory of Dea. James Chute, who died Jan. 31, 1769, in the 83d year of his age.

And of Mary Chute his consort, who died Aug. 12, 1760. Aged 67.

Deacon Chute was the son of Mr. James Chute, who in 1681, commenced a settlement a few rods west of this spot. He was a grandson of Lionel Chute the first of the family in Massachusetts.

The old Chute house — a mile north of the Byfield meeting-house — now owned by James Chute Peabody, which he inherited from his aunt, Sophia Chute, granddaughter of Capt. Daniel Chute, was built by Capt. Daniel Chute, 1780, over the cellar of a garrison house, built by his grandfather a century before, and has always been in the family.

The Chute place, a few rods west of the Byfield meeting-house, went from Capt. Daniel Chute to his son Dea. James; thence to his son Richard, who sold it to Shubael Dummer, who left it to his son David, who sold it to Joseph Strauss, a Jewish priest of Boston, who still owns it, although in New York. The buildings of the latter place are all gone, and three old cellars and two old wells remain as relics of the once famous old house.

II. OF THE OLDEST, OR NEW HAMPSHIRE AND NOVA SCOTIA BRANCH.

Rev. Henry Alline, son of William and Rebecca Alline, was born in Newport, R. I., June 14, 1748; taken to Nova Scotia with his parents in 1756, and lived in Falmouth, Hauts Co. From the time of settlement in Nova Scotia, he was impressed with the importance of being a christian, and these impressions and convictions finally led to his conversion in March, 1775. He immediately professed a call to preach the gospel, and being encouraged, he exercised his gifts and talents with great success; and being in advance of many others in that day, although crude in some things, he was called a New Light, and was ordained to the gospel ministry, as a Congregationalist, in a large barn at Falmouth, in 1779; and traveled extensively (principally on horse-back), up and down the Annapolis valley, even to Yarmouth, and other parts of Nova Scotia, in New Brunswick and in Maine; and finally died at the house of Rev. David McClure (1748–1820), Northampton, N. H., Feb. 2, 1784; in his thirty-sixth year. Many of the grandparents of the old folks, now living, were converts of his, and joined the Baptist churches, then organizing in those provinces.

Besides being the instrument in God's hand of leading hundreds, if not thousands, to follow the Lord Jesus Christ, he wrote about four hundred hymns which were published about 1790, a third edition was printed at Dover, N. H., 1797. They were used quite extensively among the New Lights and Free Baptists; but the only hymn among them now in use, we believe is the one commencing “Amazing sight the Savior stands,

And knocks at every door.
Ten thousand blessings in his hands,
To satisfy the poor.”

Thomas Chute,⁶ heard the Rev. Mr. Alline about 1780, from the text “And it shall come to pass in that day that the great trumpet shall be blown and they shall come that are ready to perish in the land of Assyria, and the outcasts in the land of Egypt, and they shall worship the Lord in the holy mount at Jerusalem,” Isaiah 28: 13; and it led to his conversion, and he was baptized, if we mistake not, by Rev. Thomas Handley Chipman, in the Annapolis River, near Bridgetown; and probably his older brothers, Samuel and John (perhaps their parents too), were converted and added to the church about the same time. Bear, moose, foxes and other game, besides Indians, were quite plentiful in Nova Scotia in those days.

This same Dea. Thomas Chute on Mar. 6, 1808, at Bear River, went out in the morning and found a bear track, so he and sons, Andrew and Abel — perhaps Calvin and John — with a couple of dogs, went up back of the barn into a swamp, and found a tree partly blown over, so there was a large hollow under the roots. Abel cut a stick and poked down through a hole in the top, and exclaimed “It is soft as a bag of wool.” At that the old bear stuck her nose out under the roots looking “savage as a meat ax,” when the old gent let go an ounce musket ball into her, at which she sank down with a groan, and a cub crawled up on her back; this was picked up with the hand and taken care of. They got out the dead bear, dressed it, sold the meat at the garrison in Annapolis for six pence a pound; kept the cub till in the summer it got so mischievous they sold it too. For forty to fifty years afterwards the sons would say when the sixth of March came around, “this is the day we got the old bear out of the den.”

In 1811 the brothers, Benjamin and Thomas, took a notion to go to Upper Canada (called Canada West, in 1849, and Ontario in 1867), and they went as far as Black Rock, below Buffalo, so they saw the “promised land” across the Niagara River, when Uncle Benjamin was taken sick and they returned.

In 1841, when Andrew Chute sold out at Bear River to go to Canada, some opposed and some ridiculed him. His father-in-law, Eleazer Woodworth, composed a little poem commencing

Andrew Chute, the old goat,
Put all his property afloat.

But Deacon Chute always rejoiced that he sold out in Nova Scotia — said there was a providence in it — and went to a country where there was more room and privileges to grow up with the growth of the country in education, wealth and usefulness.

On his seventieth birthday, Sept. 15, 1859, Deacon Chute had a large party at his house, which included, besides the members of his own family, Mrs. Jane Chute, Mrs. Nellie McConnell, Dea. R. Hankinson and wife, Dea. B. J. Timpany and wife, Charles Northrup and some neighbors. This was his last home party. Deacon Chute composed a poem or two in early life, but we believe they are lost. We here insert, however, a favorite poem of his, in heroic verse, to which he composed a tune.

Of all the fools on earth by heaven accursed,
The drunkard should be reckoned with the worst;
No beast that walks the plain or bird that flies,
Does act so base a part or so unwise.

2.

The dull, the slow, the poor despised ass,
In wisdom does the drunkard far surpass;
He drinks no more when nature's satisfied,
But leaves the stream along the vale to glide.

3.

But drunkards of inferior sense will drink,
Till they can scarcely walk or talk or think;
What crime will not a drunkard then commit,
When in this vile intoxicated fit.

4.

Satan can rule him with easy sway,
And turn him as he pleases in his way;
His health, his wealth, his character and time,
Are all destroyed by this atrocious crime.

5.

We censure thieves who into houses creep,
To rob their neighbors while they are asleep;
To purchase poison in the flowing bowl,
Which brings them all to want and damns the soul.

6.

Stay, sinner, stay before it is too late,
Reflect with horror on thine awful state;
The blood of Christ will cleanse your sins away,
O seek his mercy, seek without delay.

About fourteen years after his father's death, his son Freeman, to whom was willed the old homestead, moved away the white house, built by Capt. John McIntyre in 1841, and built a brick house in its place; and as it was finished at the time his wife was forty years old, his brothers, sisters, cousins and neighbors, got up a "surprise party," June 5, 1877, and assembled between forty and fifty to do them honor. As he was on the road to work, being path-master that year, the company sent out a "corporal's guard," captured him and took him in. At that party J. M. Chute read Will M. Carleton's "Out of the Old House into the New," with variations, which were very appropriate.

As the centennial of his father's birthday drew near, Freeman concluded to have a celebration at his place on the occasion; so as the fifteenth of September was Sunday he invited his friends and kindred from far and near, and they assembled on Saturday, Sept. 14, 1889, to the number of sixty-six named Chute, twenty named McConnell and forty-seven others, nearly all related, and they carried out the following program: Assembled at 10 A. M., took dinner under the cherry trees in front of the house; Mr. E. S. Phillips of Aylmer, with his camera took pictures, three or four groups; then they gathered on the east side of the house and had music by a string band of seven violins, a cornet and bass viol; Rev. William Grant being called to the chair, gave a good speech; music, "Old Folks at Home," by the band; speech by Rev. A. T. Sowerby of Aylmer; song, "Look on the Bright Side," by W. E. & J. M. Chute of Michigan; recitation by Sophia Mulholland, a school teacher; anthem, "Holy is the Lord," by the Chute choir; speech by W. E. Chute, sketching the family of John Chute and Judith Foster, who moved from New Hampshire to Nova Scotia in 1759 — of their five sons and three daughters, descendents of five of them were represented as present; "Let every heart rejoice and sing," was then sung, followed by speeches from Deacons E. L. Chute of Aylmer, and J. M. Chute of North Branch, Mich.; song, "The Maid of Dundee," by Loretta Chute, accompanied on a guitar; hymn-anthem, "Jerusalem my glorious home," was sung; speech by Isaiah Chute of Peabody, Mass.; then "Auld Lang Syne," by the band; speeches by Mesdames Sarah A. Harris and Harriet Chute, sisters of "mine host;" musical dialogue, "Teacher and Pupil," by W. E. Chute and his nephew, H. L. McConnell; speeches by C. Chute and F. Chute, Esquires; hymn, "Parting Friends," sung by all; closing speech by Elder Grant, and singing, "God be with you till we meet again," all of which were well done and well enjoyed; and all parted in peace, having spent a fine day, long to be remembered. III. OF THE MAINE OR THIRD BRANCH:

Dea. Thomas Chute, who went from Massachusetts to Maine, 1737, was certainly a man of ambition, energy, faith and perseverance, as the records of Boston, Marblehead and Salem, Mass., and those of Portland and Windham, Me., plainly show. A part of his papers and personal effects descended through his grandson Col. Josiah of the Revolution, to his son George W., of Windham; while another part descended through Col. Thomas, and Col. Francis to John W., of Otisfield. At the house of the late John H., is a good size pine board chest with "T. C. 1712," on the inside of the cover, that he had in Boston, the year he married Mary Curtis. At this same John H.'s, is a painting purporting to be the Chute Coat of Arms, but it is pronounced by experts a fraud.

After the Revolution, a good sized porcelain pitcher (probably made in Philadelphia), with blue flowers on the side and the name "Mary Chute," also in blue, was presented to Mary, wife of Josiah Chute, which descended to the daughter Mary Noyes Abbot and from her to Mary Ann Sanborn.

But there is a bad thing in Windham. The church records say that Dea. Tho. Chute died in 1771; Thomas L. Smith (1797-1881), delivered a Centennial address in 1835; enlarged since and called the History of Windham, in which he says that Thomas Chute was born in England, 1690. Then George W. Chute, in view of approaching dissolution, appointed Wm. Goold, Esq., his executor, and ordered two white marble monuments to be erected about fifteen feet high, in the family burying ground, to cost $1,000, with inscriptions of four generations, Thomas, Curtis, Col. Josiah and George W., upon them, in which not only the error of the death of Thos. Chute in 1770 is copied, but his birth—worse than Mr. Smith—is stated as in London, England, 1690. At the same time papers were in the house of George W. Chute explaining and telling better, but only needing and demanding examination and investigation. It is bad enough, when falsehoods are told, but worse to be written, and still worse to be engraved upon stones.

ALLIED FAMILIES.

THE ALLIED FAMILIES.

WHEN the neutral French were driven out of Nova Scotia by their English victors, in 1755, liberal offers were made to loyal subjects of the King of England to occupy the lands. As a consequence, some thousands from Great Britain, Germany, and the New England States, emigrated to that province, the descendants of a large number of whom are connected with the Chute family. During and after the Revolution, thousands of Loyalists, or Refugees, chose to establish themselves in that part of North America, which still remained under the British flag.

Histories of some of these families have been partly written, and published in the United States, and so will not be so fully described here; while the greater part of them are now printed for the first time, and will be in more detail.

* Hannah, daughter of Michael and Hannah (Webster) Emerson, was b. Dec. 23, 1657, in Haverhill, Mass; m. Dec. 3, 1677, Thomas Dustin (or Duston), and had 13 children before 1699. On March 15, 1697, nineteen or twenty Indians made a raid upon the town, burned half a dozen houses, murdered and captured about thirty-nine persons, including Mrs. Hannah Dustin, her nurse, Mary Corliss, widow of Wm. Neff, and an English boy, Sam Lennardson. Her baby, Martha, only 6 days old, had its brains dashed out against a tree, in its mother's sight! Mr. Dustin, seeing the savages coming, ran with his gun, got between them and the children—eight of his own and several others along with them—and got them to a place of safety. The captured ones were marched seventy-five or eighty miles north, through the woods, to an island in the Merrimack river, at Pennacook, above Concord, N. H. The Indian family were twelve—two stout men, three women, and seven children—and while there in camp, fearing and dreading worse usage, Mrs. Dustin planned their escape. So on the night of the 29th, while they were asleep, Mrs. Dustin and her nurse, with tomahawks, brained ten of them; one, seeing the fate of the others, up and run, and one was spared. She then took the ten scalps and her captor's gun, as trophies, and they paddled down the Merrimack in a canoe, arriving at home the 31st, finding their house burned, but the husband and children all safe. She was awarded £50 by the General Assembly at Boston, and some presents from Colonel Nicholson, governor of Maryland. Mr. Dustin was living in 1729, and it is said that she survived him several years. The children were: Hannah, 1678; Elizabeth, 1680; Mary, 1681; Thomas, 1683; Nathaniel, 1685; John, 1686; Sarah, 1688; Abigail, 1690; Jonathan, 1692; Timothy, 1694; Mehitabel, 1694; Martha, 1697; Lydia, 1698.

A monument has been erected in Haverhill to the memory of Hannah Dustin, with appropriate inscriptions upon it.

i RUTH, b. 1796; killed by the falling of a tree, March, 1814. Joseph Woodbury (Foster, Dr. Jonathan from Portsmouth, N. H.) wrote a poem on her death as follows:

Young people all, pray lend an ear,
 And don't forbear to shed a tear;
 While to your minds a scene I bring,
 That happened early in the Spring
 The last of March, the sky serene,
 In eighteen hundred and fourteep,
 This tragedy was brought to view,
 And worse than many ever knew.

One afternoon two damsels fair*
 Did walk abroad to take the air,
 When turning back for home that day,
 Death took one of them for his prey.
 A tree was suffered from above
 To fall upon this harmless dove;
 She fell beneath that awful rod,
 And had no time to call on God.

The ground was covered o'er with blood,
 That from her mouth ran in a flood;
 And tears did melt the snow around,
 While mourning made the woods resound.
 Her parents wept, but all in vain,
 Their sighs can't bring her back again;
 Her friends and kindred, all as one,
 Their much beloved now bemoan.

The youth† on whom her tho'ts were bent,
 And in deep mourning did lament
 The loss of his intended bride,
 Who now is severed from his side.
 But she has gone and left him here
 To mourn for her, year after year;
 The deep impressions, he will find,
 Will never be worn out of mind.

Her young companions now are left,
 Of a good friend they are bereft;
 This should to all a warning be—
 Make ready for eternity.
 How short our lives! how brief, alas!
 Peter‡ compares them to the grass.
 The grass doth wither and decay,
 The flower thereof doth fade away.

This was the text upon that day,
 The damsel mingled with her clay;
 When gloomy looks with griefs attend
 The faces of her many friends.
 Now to conclude — It was her lot —
 So let this scene be ne'er forgot,
 The awful tree! that shocking blow!
 The fatal spot will ne'er outgrow.

Their parentage we have not satisfactorily ascertained. Solomon is reported to have come from Pennsylvania to Massachusetts and thence to Nova Scotia, while Anthony is reported to have come over from Long Island. William is said to have got his wife, Lydia, in Roxbury, Mass., so it is difficult to arrive at precise data to trace them. That they were brothers was always said by their children in Nova Scotia.

BIRTHDAY POEM ON THE OLD HOMESTEAD, FEB. 22, 1884.

The farmhouse wore a modest mien,
 The small size windows, quaint and red,
 And through a tangled web of green,
 I think I see the old woodshed!
 The orchard bloom in white and pink
 Was handsome to the children's eye,
 Sweet music of the bob-'o-link
 Gave pleasure in a sunlit sky.

The lofty height of hard wood trees,*
 That used to grow upon the hill,
 Was kept to burn — we did not freeze —
 For the fireplace we used to fill!
 The nightingale — her ringing song —
 Upon those trees in summer time,
 We heard it all the evening long,
 She'd almost charm us with her rhyme.

Of clover red and new-mown hay,
 A fragrance on the air swept by;
 The old brick yard and miry clay
 Would sometimes cause us boys to sigh!
 The sunset spread its rose-red glare,
 The stars upon the upland play,
 Through dreary paths of purple air
 North Mountain ranges stretch away.

* Ash, beech, birch, maple, and oak.

Beside the bars, close to the wood,
 Within the mellow twilight gloam,
 How oft a barefoot boy I stood,
 To wait until the cows came home.
 The battle of my life I've fought,
 'Part from the scenes of boyhood's time,
 Yet even in this time I sought
 To clasp a stronger hand than mine.

J. S. P., in Boston.

From the Hutchinson family of New England have descended some high, honorable, and pious personages. Jesse, the father (Elisha, Joseph, Joseph, Joseph, Joseph, Richard), b. at Middleton, Mass., 1778; m. Mary Leavitt, 1800; moved to Milford, N. H., 1824; had a family of 16 children; 13 of them grew up, and united as the band of singers. The father d. 1851; the mother in 1868, aged 83. Jesse (1813-1853), the chief composer, and Andrew B. (1808-1860), were pious members of the Baptist church. John Wallace, the only one left, is living in Lynn. Jesse wrote "The Old Granite State," "Good old days of Yore," "Slave's Appeal," and "Congressional Song." We well remember some of these in days of yore, especially "The Old Granite State," one stanza of which is here appended:

David, Noah, Andrew, Zeppy,
Caleb, Joshua, Jesse, and Benny,

And Abby are our names;
We're the sons of Mary,
Of the tribe of Jesse,
And we now address you
With our native mountain song.

God has lengthened out my span
Beyond the common age of man.
He has saved me by his power,
And has kept me to this hour.

One hundred years gone o'er my head,
The seven last I've kept my bed.
A hundred years has passed away
As quickly as a winter day.

Long days and nights I lie in pain,
But I've no reason to complain,
For it is done to let you see
How good my God has been to me.

The Lord was pleased to place me where
I have received the best of care,
And night and day they watch my bed;
May God reward them when I'm dead!

Now that my days are almost gone,
I soon shall join that heavenly throng,
And walk that narrow, happy road,
That brings me nearer to my God.

When the Lord is pleased to call me,
I'll be ready for to go,
Believing he will not forsake me,
When I leave this world of wo.

When my days on earth are done,
I shall go down like the sun,
To rise in Heaven above the sky,
A place where love can never die.

When I reach that blessed shore,
There will I my God adore.
God grant that I his face shall see,
And praise him thro' eternity.
